Change lives with charitable gifts, from $5 to $100

Click to Give: Holiday Charity Websites

The holiday season is a time for buying (your kid's wish list might already be the size of the Declaration of Independence) but it's also a time for giving — charitable giving, that is. From adopting an elephant to providing a community in need with a toilet, we hope this list of charitable gifts will inspire you to really reach out. (Besides, does your kid really need three more Webkinz dolls? Teach him how rewarding it is to give instead of receive!)

$ 100 Gifts

Lulu, from Nairobi, is a television co-host, loves soccer, and will help your kids learn about giving to kids around the world.

Teach You Kids About Giving — First Hand

Karito Kids will connect your kid to kids in other cultures. Each doll — Pita from Mexico City, LuLu from Nairobi, Gia from Florence, Wan Ling from Shanghai, and Zoe from New York — reflects their culture in their appearance, dress, and the books that accompany them. When you buy a doll, a percentage of the purchase is donated to Plan USA, a worldwide children's charity. Kids then enter the doll's code on karitokids.com and can select a charitable cause in which the donation will go toward. Your child will see first hand what it's like to give and learn about kids around the world.
